EDITORIAL

So here we are with our second bondage issue! Lotta talent this time around....with regular Genus staffers Brian Sutton and Kjartan Arnorsson leading the chase. They're joined by the usual suspects....Nebel Ungen, Tabitha Jones, James Hanrahan, Tygger, Robert Hill, Jerry Collins and a cast of exciting young people! Due to the unfortunate mix-up last issue, we present Cindy Crowell's "Ringing Up Baby" in its entirety; sorry again, Cindy! I suppose the big news around here is that I have relinquished my editorial responsibilities at Antarctic Press to Elin Winkler. This frees me up for more creative endeavors both within and without Antarctic Press. Elin and Herb Mallette can more than handle the massive editorial workload at A.P. and Elin has a lot of fresh new ideas for the furry line. In that vein, it pains me to announce the possible cancellation of Wild Life. We are all more than a little bit baffled by this book's performance. While it is the type of book that all the furry fans claimed they wanted, its sales are far below those of Furlough or Genus ( books they claim they don't read). We will try various experiments in format and material over the next few issues to hopefully goose sales but alas, if low sales continue the book will be axed. What do you, the readers, think? I myself am developing a new strip called "Jaux the Lion" specifically for Wild Life beginning in issue #10. Check it out!

For those of you who've been waiting, "Shiny Black Bunnies II" is finally complete and available from Happy Jackal Graphics, Radio Comix, and Mailbox Books. I encourage all of you to check out the materials available from these companies and really get acquainted with many of the new artists that are appearing on the scene. Take care and beware!
